CREATIVITY IS IN HILLIARD'S DNA

When you think about local government, “creative” might not be the first adjective that comes to mind.

But the members of City Council and the City’s Administration take pride in finding creative solutions to challenges, bringing innovative opportunities into this community, and supporting public and performing arts.

That’s why the theme of this edition of Your Hilliard is “creativity.” As you read the stories inside we think you’ll agree: Creativity is the fuel that is driving our community forward.

Summer is a great time to see this in action, with our Celebration at the Station summer concert series, our Freedom Fest celebration in July, and a full slate of programs from our Recreation and Parks Department. You’ll find all the details about summer fun inside this edition.

We don’t strive for innovation just to be different. When the City of Hilliard implements a creative solution to a challenge – be it a roundabout at a busy intersection or a grant program designed to promote economic development – these ideas are based on research and data into best practices, partnerships with other innovators, or even good old necessity (the mother of invention!)

Hilliard has always been a community on the move, and creativity is a key component in forward progress. The stories in this edition of Your Hilliard are just a sample of how our community and your City of Hilliard are innovating.

You’ll see a great deal more change in the coming year. The City is moving ahead with its comprehensive community planning process, and thanks to the passage of Issue 22 in November 2021 we are in the initial stages of work that will result in a modern new Community Center – hopefully in 2025.

COUNCIL SEEKING APPLICANTS FOR AGING-IN-PLACE COMMITTEE

Hilliard City Council is seeking applicants for a new advisory committee that will focus on the needs of our community’s older adult residents and their caregivers.

Council will accept applications for the Aging-In-Place Advisory Committee until 5 p.m. Friday, April 15. To apply, please submit a résumé and letter of interest to the Clerk of Council at CouncilClerk1@hilliardohio.gov.

The nine-resident committee will advise City Council on matters affecting adults age 55 and older in Hilliard and their caregivers. Its goal is to help create an age-friendly community, focusing on topics that include community development, programming, and services. Members must be Hilliard residents age 55 or older. Eventually, all members will serve three-year terms, but during the formation of the committee terms will be staggered, so some initial members will serve one-year or two-year terms.

The committee will meet on dates and times it deems necessary to fulfill its purpose.

Modern Challenges call for Creative Solutions

“ We have to be open to trying new approaches that can be more effective, more efficient, and that serve our community in better ways. ”

During the summer of 2021, residents in some of Hilliard’s older neighborhoods were witnesses to a curious sight.

Claire Horack and Mackenzie Hebert, college interns working for the City of Hilliard, could be found pushing a modified golf bag cart up City sidewalks, periodically checking an attached iPad. If a resident was curious enough to ask, they learned that the interns were assessing the condition and accessibility of neighborhood sidewalks – part of a high-tech inventory process designed to help the City prioritize sidewalk repairs.

“The ADAC (Americans With Disabilities Act Compatibility) cart was used to supplement traditional field inspection procedures to identify sidewalks that were in poor condition or out of compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act,” said Duane Powell, Director of Information Technology. “Future versions of the cart will be able to check for other factors, such as sidewalk width, slope, and other elements associated with ADA.”

“This process typically is done manually, which can be time-intensive. Data often has to be fed into a database by hand,” Powell said. “By thinking outside the box and working with our partners at Converge Technologies to develop ADAC, we hope to be able to use technology to streamline this process, eventually making it a literal walk down the sidewalk.”

The word “creative” is not the first adjective that often comes to mind when thinking about local government, admits City Manager Michelle Crandall. But when it comes to problem-solving, City staff is always open to viewing innovative solutions as viable alternatives.

“Some of the worst words in the English language are, ‘We’ve always done it that way,’” Crandall said. “Those thoughts are limiting. We have to be open to trying new approaches that can be more effective, more efficient, and that serve our community in better ways.”

Sometimes, local creative solutions are designed to address regional – or global – problems. Take, for example, the City’s 2021 acquisition of a Styrofoam densifying machine, thanks in part to the Environmental Sustainability Commission and a grant from SWACO.

“This machine takes massive amounts of Styrofoam that would otherwise wind up in our landfill and compresses it into solid bricks that can be repurposed for other uses,” said Pete Marsh, member of City Council and the ESC. “In December alone, we were able to divert 1,500 pounds of Styrofoam away from the landfill, and we have plans to use this machine regionally in other communities. So, I would definitely say this was a creative solution to a regional issue.”

Often, creativity results from partnerships with other agencies, including Hilliard businesses. Exciting examples of innovative partnerships are coming out of the City’s relationship with manufacturing innovation center Converge Technologies, a company that specializes in commercializing technology.

“The City’s relationship with Converge is a creative partnership that we anticipate will result in new technology-based companies opening in Hilliard and new technologies being developed for the marketplace,” said David Meadows, Director of Economic Development. “For example, the City of Hilliard is partnering with Hilliard-based start-up GhostWave, Inc., LIFT Aircraft, and Parallax Advanced Research to study how police officers, firefighters, paramedics and other public safety groups can use drones and ultralight aircraft to respond to emergencies faster and better than ever.”

Police Chief Eric Grile agreed. “We already know drones are useful in law enforcement to mitigate emergencies. The future of enhancing public safety is happening now, and it’s exciting that the hub of this private-public partnership is in Hilliard.”

Another point of creative pride in Hilliard is in the world of traffic engineering, where the data the City collects ensure our streets and intersections operate at optimum efficiency and safety.

“Cell phone location services are proving to be a valuable source of anonymous data on traffic patterns that assist us in the traffic engineering world – for planning purposes as well as for design and operation of streets, traffic signals, and roundabouts,” according to Letty Schamp, Director of Transportation and Mobility. “We have also started to use a new video detection system at a few of our traffic signals, which allows us to collect traffic counts. Our creative use of data allows us to prioritize investments, optimize operations, and make informed decisions based on the number of cars traveling on various streets and current traffic patterns.”

It’s all part of looking creatively to solve local challenges.

“Sometimes, tried-and-true solutions remain the best ways to accomplish things,” Crandall said. “But at the City, we always ask ourselves, ‘is there a better way? Is there another solution to this challenge that better serves our community?’ Maybe thinking outside the box and seeking new solutions is additional effort, but when the benefits of a creative solution improve Hilliard, it’s worth it.”

Meet Hilliard's QUEEN of Summer Fun

Before Hilliard's Station Park opened as a community event space in December 2015, and before events like Celebration at the Station took over Old Hilliard on Thursday nights, there was a vision for something great in the city.

"When Hilliard's Station Park was being built, the goal was to find ways for the community to gather there," recalls Kristan Turner, Recreation Supervisor for Hilliard Recreation and Parks Department. "We knew we had this great new venue in Old Hilliard with so much potential."

Part of a much larger revitalization effort, Hilliard's Station Park brought activity back to downtown by offering a venue for community events, programming, and respite for people using the Heritage Trail.

Turner began planning events from the ground up, and as a career-long Hilliard employee who started working for the City as a lifeguard at the age of 15, she had a strong grasp of what the community wanted.

"Hilliard is such a family-friendly community, and I really wanted our signature events to reflect that," she said. "But it was also important to incorporate fun for the adults."

That's when the idea to host concerts that included a Designated Outdoor Refreshment Area (DORA) and children's activities arose. Eventually, the Celebration at the Station concert series was born.

Turner and her team didn't stop there. They continued to plan other events such as Motivation at the Station, Sprouts Night Out, food truck lunches, and movies in the park to reach as many different members of the Hilliard community as possible.

"Once the ideas were in place, we ran with them," Turner said.

Sure enough, the first summer of events at the park exceeded even what was envisioned. Hilliard residents responded positively to the new events, with hundreds – sometimes thousands – in attendance at each one.

"You could see the events grow throughout the summer. Everyone was talking about Thursdays at Hilliard's Station Park," Turner said. "We knew we had something special."

In 2021, it was estimated that there were 3,000 to 5,000 people in attendance at each of the 11 Celebration at the Station concerts. Those were numbers that would have been hard to believe just five years ago.

"I remember times when you could go to Old Hilliard on a nice day and see hardly anyone out and about," she said. "It's the park and events held there that draw people and businesses downtown."

Today, Old Hilliard, especially the area surrounding Hilliard's Station Park, is booming. Many new businesses, including Center Street Market and Crooked Can Brewing, have chosen to call Hilliard home since the park opened in late 2015.

Programming has changed and grown throughout the years. Turner says the City has kept some of the original events like Motivation at the Station and Celebration at the Station and added new ones like Adult Recess. (Mark your calendar for July 16!)

Now that the events have been established and the original vision of a community gathering spot has come alive, Turner says, "It's just a matter of fine-tuning them and keeping people interested."

Turner and her team are always taking suggestions. Look for them at each event wearing the "staff" shirts or connect with the City on social media to provide event feedback.

"Hilliard's Station Park and the DORA have transformed the way Hilliard does events," Turner said. "I can't wait to see what they look like in the future."

Creativity Flourishes with Hilliard Seniors

New writers, published authors, and those looking for socialization while expressing creativity each have a different motivation for joining the Hilliard Senior Center Writer's Club, but the same reason for staying: the support.

Small but mighty, the Writer's Club meets at 9:30 a.m. every Monday at the Hilliard Senior Center. With five active members attending each week, they've built strong, intimate connections, and encourage others to join.

"I think this group can be beneficial to anyone, at any stage of life," said Leslie Smith, unofficial club leader.

The group ends each meeting by determining a writing assignment for the following meeting. Approximately one page in length, each assignment is based on a prompt, challenge, phrase, or theme. Some choose to create poems; others write short stories. Meetings begin with members were growing up at each age. When they graduated high school, she gave them the letters as a story of their childhood through the perspective of their parents as a special gift. Her children used to inspire her writing.

"Listening to podcasts, reading books, my religion, and looking forward to traveling once again someday safely is what inspires my writing currently," Olenhouse said.

Marlene Shea, newest member to the writing group, enjoys expressing herself with her pen and appreciates the feedback she receives.

"They motivate me to keep writing each week," Shea said. She uses her childhood in Honduras and life aspirations to inspire her writing.

Although writing is the main purpose of this group, support comes as a close second.

Listening to podcasts, reading books, my religion, and looking forward to traveling once again someday safely is what inspires my writing currently.

reading their creative writing pieces aloud. Listening members offer words of encouragement, praise, support, and ideas on what could be changed or improved.

"Not every assignment is going to resonate with everyone. And that's okay," said Smith. That leads to creative interpretations of the prompts each week.

Several common themes appear in their weekly writings, which spark discussions, questions, and personal stories. Several write about reuniting with old friends and traveling – something the pandemic has prevented them from physically accomplishing. Writing allows members to express their dreams, desires, emotions, challenges, memories from childhood, struggles with old age, and lessons learned earlier in life.

Some members find motivation in childhood memories. Published author and club member Sandra Akers has a passion for mystery-themed prompts. Reading Nancy Drew novels to her blind mother as a child has always inspired her writing. Although health struggles have created obstacles, she presses onward.

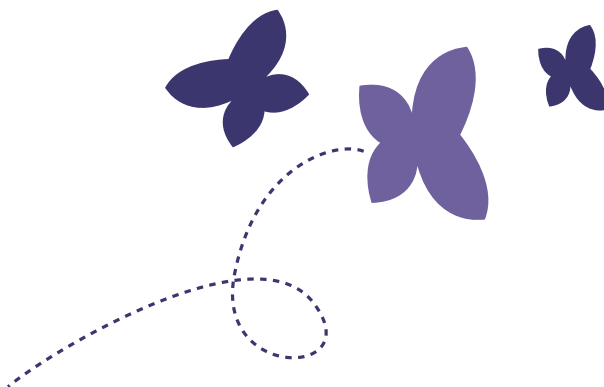

"I don't let my health issues limit me. If you do that, you die long before you actually do," she said.

Others have always loved writing, but retirement has allowed for time to be devoted to the craft. Member Donna Olenhouse wrote letters to each of her children while they

"Sandra had a book signing for one of her published books in southern Ohio, so the group took a road trip to surprise her and support her that day," Smith said.

Amy Van Huffel, Recreation Supervisor for Adult & Senior Programming at the City of Hilliard, emphasized the Writer's Club is an informal, self-lead group. Anyone who is interested in participating just needs to be a member of the Senior Center.

An annual $15 fee gives members access to special events, educational speakers, exciting trips, and weekly activities like billiards, bingo, crafts, and cards. Memberships are available to seniors 55 and older. The Writer's Club is a free drop-in program, meaning advance registration is not required.

HILLIARD

Art Blossoms Around City

Page 13: Old Hilliard has become a colorful centerpiece to the City thanks to art like the Center Street Mural, which pays homage to Hilliard's history as a railroad stop in the mid-1800s. Across the street at the Hilliard Civic and Cultural Arts center, you can see the community mural, "Coloring the Path To Our Future".

The recent growth of Hilliard, along with the support of local arts advocates, has helped spark a newfound appreciation for public art in our community.

Back in 2017, Kelley Daniel was instrumental in creating the Hilliard Public Arts Commission (HPAC) and has since put together a plan to enrich the visual and aesthetic environment in the city.

"Public art is a win-win for Hilliard because it gets people out around town and into businesses and restaurants where they can appreciate it," said Daniel.

HPAC has approved a number of murals in Old Hilliard, including the Center Street Mural, which pays homage to Hilliard's history as a railroad stop in the mid-1800s. Walk across the street to the Hilliard Civic and Cultural Arts Center to see two more murals on adjacent sides of the building.

This May, another mural will begin being added to the downtown area at the Ross Realtors office building at 3988 Main St. Artist Sarah Hout is painting a lighthearted piece with hot air balloons and small houses — a nod to the movie Up.

"We have so many talented artists here in Central Ohio, and it's great that people are finally appreciating it," Daniel said. "I didn't realize how many people are interested in the arts."

Daniel and HPAC look to continue their momentum in 2022 with two new public arts programs. The first involves Hilliard's traffic signal boxes, while the second consists of murals at the Clyde "Butch" Seidle Community Pool.

This spring, selected artists will beautify seven traffic signal boxes along Cemetery Road and one in Old Hilliard with original sunflower art. The winning pieces will be installed with vinyl displays wrapped around the currently brown and gray traffic boxes.

Then, in March and April, the pool project will partner with Hilliard City Schools students to create mobile displays that can be used in various capacities at Hilliard East Park. Local middle school and high school students will be selected to create art that will make a positive impact in the community.

"It's amazing what kind of impact these murals have already had," Daniel said. "Once the new Community Center is built, that will also open up so many more doors for us. We envision adding sculptures and other types of unique art to the Wellness Campus that will make Hilliard such a vibrant place to live for years to come."

Funding for the HPAC's public artworks comes from the City of Hilliard's Public Art Program Fund, in which City Council dedicates 1% of the cost of eligible capital projects to public art, up to $200,000 per project.

PASSIONATE ABOUT SERVICE, COMPASSIONATE ABOUT PEOPLE

FOCUS HILLIARD OFFERS OUTSIDE-THE-BOX COMMUNITY PARAMEDICINE TO HILLIARD RESIDENTS

Paramedics typically arrive on scene in response to a 911 call, but first responders in Hilliard have a program aimed at preventing the emergency before it happens.

Known as Focus Hilliard, the program is Norwich Township's version of an outside-the-box health care approach known as community paramedicine. The innovative model allows emergency medical technicians (EMTs) to operate in expanded roles.

It's designed to cut back on crowds at the hospital and free up first responders to be able to react to more dire situations.

Norwich Township Firefighter/EMTs Heith Good and Nate Jennings spearheaded the launch of the program in 2016 with the administration's backing.

"We found that many of our residents don't need to go to the hospital, but the local police and fire departments are the only resources when there's an emergency. So, they just call 911," Good said. "What we wanted to do was jump on board, be creative, and think how we're going to serve our community in a different way."

Focus Hilliard now serves about 100 residents per year through a partnership with the National Church Residences, according to Jessica Smith, a State Tested Nurse Aide (STNA) who serves as the program's service coordinator.

Referrals mostly come from firefighters and Hilliard police officers based upon their daily encounters. Good and Jennings tap into their networks to take care of short-term needs, while Smith performs home assessments and lines up long-term resources, such as occupational therapy, medical equipment, Meals on Wheels, and transportation with Hilliard Express.

Smith also follows up with residents both in-person and via phone. It's about connecting residences with resources — whatever their needs may be.

Norwich Township Fire Department's Heith Good, left, and Nate Jennings spearheaded the launch of Focus Hilliard in 2016. The program is a creative health care approach that allows EMTs to operate in expanded roles.

"Sometimes residents don't even need anything," Smith said. "One woman would just call me weekly and say it just feels good to talk to somebody. She even called to wish me a happy Thanksgiving!"

The program has served a couple seeking addiction rehabilitation, with Good and Jennings dropping off food and calling in resources from all over central Ohio. They've helped individuals who are homeless, people with mental health needs, and even an elderly woman hoping to check off a bucket list item of owning a horse.

"Heith and I often think of we have attributes of paramedic and firefighter, but I think what we've come to believe in many situations is that these folks in our community just want human beings to talk to," Jennings said. "Everything from horses to bedside commodes — we've done it all."

Hilliard Division of Police Officer Mike Deaton has called in Focus Hilliard several times over the years. Officers are grateful to have a team to that ensures residents' needs are met long after police respond to a call, he said.

"We don't stop thinking about these folks after the call is over," Deaton said. "There are a lot of resources for those in need, but they may not know about them. Focus Hilliard does a great job being the connector."

Good said police and fire personnel are available not only for emergency response, but to serve residents for life fulfillment.

"We want you to call us no matter what — if don't know how to navigate the health care system, for pharmacy needs, to get a hospital bed, separate pills — we want to help you with that in the most simplistic way," Good said. "We just want to do life with you."

LOCAL ARTIST FOCUSES ON GRATITUDE WITH OLD HILLIARD MURAL

Last summer, Columbus-based artist Jeremy Jarvis stared at the southeast side of the Hilliard Civic & Cultural Arts Center (HCCAC) and saw potential.

Jarvis, 44, owner of Jarvis Art Studio in Westerville, was selected from among five applicants who answered a call for artists by the Hilliard Public Arts Commission (HPAC).

“It’s an absolutely gorgeous mural. We are so pleased,” said Robin Brennehan, Executive and Artistic Director of the Hilliard Arts Council. “Every time I drive up to the building, I marvel at it. The great part is, it’s not only going to beautify the area, but also bring attention to the HCCAC. Some people don’t even know the building is there, so now I’ll simply give directions to look for the beautiful mural.”

The theme is “gratitude,” depicting three individuals on a stage who just finished a theater performance. They’re surrounded by clapping hands of audience members, which represents the Hilliard community. The ornate border is accented with sunflowers, Hilliard’s official City flower.

“I’ve been wanting to do a mural about gratitude for a long time, so I was thrilled to get this opportunity,” said Jarvis. “If you look at their expressions, all three are showing appreciation. The woman is signing ‘Thank You,’ the girl is accepting flowers, and the man has hands placed over his heart.”

Jarvis received approval from the HPAC on Aug. 30 and started the sketching stage in the middle of September. He worked at night, typically around 8 p.m. to 2 a.m., using a light to project the sketch onto the wall. After a week of tracing out the design, Jarvis began painting, usually four to five days a week, around six hours a day.

In total, Jarvis said he spent more than 300 hours on the mural, which spans 40-feet wide by 24-feet high. He finished painting Dec. 30, then adhered a protective coating the following day to wrap things up just before the start of 2022.

“What I really wanted to illustrate was the connection between the artist and the audience, in this case the Hilliard community,” Jarvis said. “Inevitably, we need each other. Artists need an audience, and we need artists to bring that joy and appreciation to life itself.”

Jarvis has completed more than 100 murals for municipalities, restaurants, and gyms, as well as private commissions for residential paintings.

Two decades ago, the Michigan native moved to Central Ohio to attend the Columbus College of Art and Design and never left. Jarvis and his wife, Suman, have four children and live in Westerville.

The plan is to set up a QR code in the corner of the mural so observers can use their phones to get a more detailed description from Jarvis’ perspective.

“I want it to connect with people on different levels and whatever they need it to say in their life,” Jarvis said. “Everyone will have a different interpretation, and that’s the beauty of art. At the very least, I want people to leave with a positive message and feeling.”

The project is one of the largest Jarvis has completed. It’s located at 5425 Center St., a visible spot in growing Old Hilliard.

“One of the most rewarding things about art is others appreciating it,” Jarvis said. “With this mural in such a prime location, I’m excited that a lot of people will get to see it for years to come.”

2021 HIGHLIGHTS

It is not an understatement to say 2021 will dramatically change the face of the Hilliard community forever.

In November, voters in this community came together and approved a 0.5-percent increase to Hilliard's municipal income taxes. Those extra funds will be dedicated annually for Recreation and Parks programs, events, parkland acquisition, and capital improvement projects.

By 2025, that will mean completion of a new Community Center comparable to those in Dublin, Westerville, and Worthington. It will mean new and additional athletic fields to meet the needs of our growing community. We anticipate a wellness campus, additional parks, exciting new programming, increased opportunities for our seniors, new community events, and a healthier, more vibrant community.

Yes, that's a lot of change. But now, let's look down the road 10 years, and even 20 years. How else will Hilliard be improved because of this fundamental change?

An equally important benefit of creating this dedicated revenue stream for Recreation and Parks is that it set in motion opportunities to invest in bike and pedestrian infrastructure, improve existing parks, and provide programs that will enhance the health of our residents and corporate residents.

Having a more secure financial future ensures Hilliard will continue to have first-class police services, public art, improvements that will make life better for our aging population, and great services such as snow removal and leaf collection.

There are so many possibilities ahead! Hilliard was already on solid financial footing. Now, the future holds additional promise thanks to this visionary community support, and we know our residents will bring us creative ideas we haven't even thought of yet!

It benefits everyone if the City can move ahead with community improvement projects sooner – and if we can take advantage of economic development opportunities that bring more and better jobs to Hilliard.

The result of these efforts over time will produce excellent, innovative services; a family-friendly, engaged community; a distinct, well-planned city; quality commercial development; and cultural and recreational amenities and programs that are valued by our residents.

Before 2021, the City of Hilliard was already achieving incredible things, and thanks to the support and faith of the residents of this community, we are now on the path to even more amazing progress!

Thank you for your support, and on behalf of City Council and the employees of the City of Hilliard I look forward to joining you as we continue traveling along the path to future possibilities!

CITY MANAGER

Real estate deals resulted in the sale of the City's Grener property to Amazon Data Services, which is expected to create 100 jobs. Hilliard received $11.76 million and Hilliard City School District $2.8 million from the sale. The $200-plus million development will produce more than $2 million annually for the schools at full build out.

Hilliard worked with 20 local businesses to sponsor and grow community events, ranging from Freedom Fest to the winter Tree Lighting festival.

The City sold 5460 Franklin Street to the Westwood Collective. The developer converted the former office and warehouse into coworking space, the Sexton's Pizza location, production and sales space for SOW Strong Foods, and storage for City of Hilliard Recreation and Parks.

Hilliard Development Corporation's $100,000 Restaurant Recovery Grant Program helped 13 community restaurants (and food- and beverage-related businesses) affected by the pandemic.

The City supported four Old Hilliard small businesses with Hilliard Development Corporation Façade Improvement Grants.

The sale of the Grener site helped the City buy 125 acres of parkland adjacent to Municipal Park for the future Community Center, wellness campus, and athletic fields.

The City improved its business engagement through the launch of a new economic development web page, Choose Hilliard videos, and creation of a new position that will partner directly to support and help grow Old Hilliard businesses.

The City launched the Hilliard Development Corporation Innovation Grant Program to grow research and development investment and high-wage job creation within Hilliard. To date, three projects have been funded.

Go to hilliardohio.gov/registration and click the “Register” button.

If you are new to Hilliard Recreation and Parks, you must establish a RecTrac account. Within 72 business hours, our staff will verify your residency and activate your account. During this process, patrons will create their own username and password if setting up their account online. RecTrac will automatically create a username and password for patrons setting up accounts in person at the Community Center.

With your existing or newly verified account, go to hilliardohio.gov/registration and sign in with your username and password. Find classes by clicking “search” and then select criteria that fit your interests.

Class Sizes

If a program does not have enough registrants one week before the program start date, it may be canceled. Registration in advance is required.

Registration Dates

Registration	Date & Time
General	April 11 at 9 a.m.

Fair Share

The Recreation and Parks Department is largely financed through taxes paid by individuals living or working within Hilliard city boundaries. For that reason, we verify residency annually. Those who are unable to verify that they live or work within Hilliard city boundaries must pay a higher fee. We also delay activating pool memberships until verification of residency or employment is provided. We accept proof of residency or employment in person at our Community Center during normal business hours; via mail at Hilliard Community Center, 3800 Veterans Memorial Drive, Hilliard, Ohio 43026; or by email at recandparks@hilliardohio.gov.

City Residents (R) receive the lowest rates. Having a Hilliard mailing address or attending Hilliard City Schools does not necessarily mean you live within city boundaries. We verify residency each year on the Franklin County Auditor’s website. Renters must provide (in person or via email) a utility bill, government-issued ID, or other proof of residency.

Non-Residents Paying Hilliard Income Taxes also receive the resident rate. To prove employment, you must provide a valid government-issued ID and one of the following each year:

- A pay stub from the previous 30 days that includes the employee’s full name and current address.
- Proof of employment on company letterhead with the signature of the patron’s supervisor or company president.

School District/Non-Residents (NR) are those who neither live nor work within Hilliard city boundaries. These individuals pay a higher fee.

Military Discount

We offer a 10-percent discount for active duty and veteran military personnel and their immediate families for pool memberships, rentals, and activities. This excludes third-party organizations and daily pool admission. Military ID must be provided in person to receive the discount.

Inclement Weather

In the event of inclement weather, Hilliard Recreation and Parks Department may close facilities or cancel/delay any program, special event, or drop-in activity. This decision is made for the safety of our patrons based upon the severity of roads and weather.

To get the most up-to-date cancellation information, follow our Facebook and Twitter pages, visit hilliardohio.gov, or call (614) 334-2598. This line is updated daily with changes, closures and cancellations of special events, aquatics, sports, and programs.

Programs Scheduled Before 5 p.m.

Programs/activities are canceled when Hilliard City School District closes or is on a delay due to inclement weather.

Programs Scheduled After 5 p.m.

AQUATICS

Hilliard operates two municipal pools: the Hilliard Family Aquatic Center and the Clyde “Butch” Seidle Community Pool. In addition to providing a safe space for families to play and spend time together, the municipal pools also organize swimming lessons and events for community members of all ages.

The Hilliard municipal pools are seasonal outdoor facilities. Pool memberships are valid at both locations. Both facilities open to the public Saturday, May 28.

Our number one priority is safety, which includes having the required number of lifeguards necessary for us to operate. For that reason, the Hilliard Family Aquatic Center’s last day of operation for the season is Tuesday, Aug. 16. Lifeguard staff availability is reduced significantly beginning Aug. 17, the first day of the school year for Hilliard City Schools. Remaining staff works at the Clyde “Butch” Seidle Community Pool through Labor Day.

Our finalized pool hours for Aug. 17-Sept. 5 will be posted online and at both pools by early August.
